12 About this report

You are The Mentor 🌱

Brings out the best in others. You naturally encourage people and help them grow. You remember what matters to everyone around you.

Only about 3 in 100 people share your type

Your type is one of 16. Each has its own strengths, blind spots and way of thinking — this report is about yours.

Your four sides

Social Energy

Visionary
Mind

Heart
Decisions

Planner
Lifestyle

You in three words

Warmth and encouragement · Organizing people · Seeing potential

At your best, you make choices that are good for everyone involved.

Type frequency: estimates for U.S. adults from a national sample of 3,009 people (Myers et al., 1998). Our test uses its own 4 scales, so the figure is an estimate.

CHAPTER 2

Your 4 scales

Each scale has two sides. Nobody is 100% one side — your answers showed which side you lean toward. It is marked with ✓.

Energy — Where do you get your energy?

Social ✓ Quiet

You recharge around people. Conversation, visits and shared plans give you energy.

Mind — What do you notice first?

Visionary ✓ Grounded

You notice ideas, meanings and possibilities. You like to ask “what if?”

Decisions — How do you decide?

Logic ✓ Heart

You decide with your heart. You think first about how a choice affects people.

Lifestyle — How do you like to live?

Planner ✓ Flexible

You like a plan, order and finished tasks. You feel best when things are settled.

CHAPTER 3

Your strengths

These are the things people value in you — often more than you realize.

💛 Warmth and encouragement

You encourage people and they grow around you.

⭐ Organizing people

You bring people together and get things organized.

🌿 Seeing potential

You see what people could become.

Your mind’s natural strengths

Based on how you take in information and how you like to live, your mind is naturally good at:

Big-picture thinking · Focus

Your brain-training plan builds on these strengths and trains the areas that get less practice.

CHAPTER 4

Your blind spots

Every strength has a flip side. Blind spots are not flaws — they are habits worth noticing.

Puts everyone else first and gets tired

You put everyone else first and run out of energy.

> Try this: Put one hour for yourself in your weekly plan.

Takes criticism to heart

Criticism stays with you for days.

> Try this: Ask “Is there one useful thing in this?” and let the rest go.

What slips first for your type

For The Mentor, what tends to slip first is names, dates and small promises. Your brain-training plan in Chapter 10 starts exactly there.

CHAPTER 5

How you make decisions

Heart Planner

You decide with your heart and like to have things settled. You think about how a choice will affect the people you love, then you commit. Watch for: saying yes to keep the peace when you mean no.

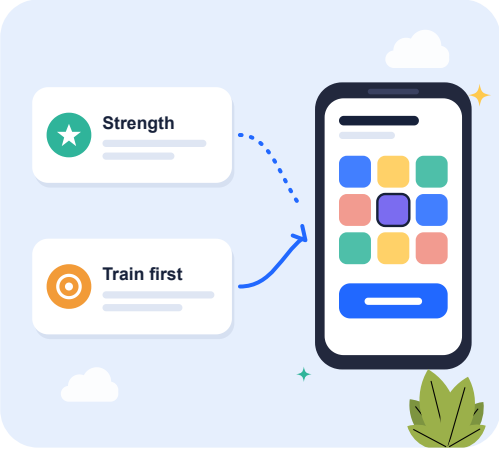

At your best, you make choices that are good for everyone involved.

Three small habits for better decisions

1. Ask yourself: “Would I say yes if nobody would be disappointed?”
2. It is fine to answer “Let me think about it” instead of yes on the spot.
3. Add one fact to every heart decision: cost, time or distance.

Why this matters for your mind

Deciding uses your working memory: holding several options in mind and comparing them. The Logic and Math games in your [Company] plan practice exactly that — in a few relaxed minutes a day.

CHAPTER 6

Relationships and communication

You are warm and easy to talk to. You make friends quickly and remember what matters to them. Make sure your own needs get heard, too.

With your family

You are the warm center of family life. You remember the birthdays and the little things, and people come to you when they need comfort.

With friends

You make friends easily and keep them for years. You notice when someone is quiet and you reach out first.

With children and grandchildren

Your children and grandchildren feel welcome and safe with you. Your stories and your attention are what they carry with them.

> You remember what matters to everyone; make sure someone remembers you, too.

Staying sharp for the people you love

Remembering names, following a fast family conversation, keeping up with your children's and grandchildren's news — these are the everyday moments your brain-training plan is built around.

CHAPTER 7

You at your best

Everyone has good days and hard days. Knowing your pattern helps you get back to your best faster.

At your best

Warm, encouraging and full of belief in others. You bring people together.

Under stress

You may say yes to everyone, feel let down and forget your own needs.

What brings you back

An evening that is only for you, and a friend who asks how you are.

How to talk to you

Share this with the people close to you.

1. Start with warmth — ask how you are.
2. Say thank you out loud; it means a lot to you.
3. Make plans together and include you.

CHAPTER 8

People, pastimes and questions

You may share your type with

Oprah Winfrey
TV host and producer

Maya Angelou
poet and author

Morgan Freeman
actor

Based on public descriptions of these people, not official assessments.

Pastimes you may enjoy

- Book or discussion club
- Travel to new places
- Teaching or mentoring
- Trying a new class

Three questions for this week

1. What do I need this week — not others?
2. Where did I say yes but mean no?
3. Who made me smile, and have I told them?

CHAPTER 9

How your mind works

Your mind keeps track of many people and plans at once. Staying sharp means keeping names, details and plans at your fingertips.

Your strength is keeping many people and plans in mind. What slips first is the detail: a name, a date, a promise made in passing.

Small slips with names and details are common at any age. Short daily practice keeps your mind in the habit of noticing.

Your mind in four areas

These are the four areas you can train in the [Company] app. Here is the order that fits your type.

🧠	Memorization	holding names, numbers and details in mind	Week 1 · train first
➗	Math	quick mental math and holding several numbers at once	Week 2 · train next
🧩	Logic	seeing patterns and finding a new order of steps	Week 3 · new areas
🎯	Focus	staying with one task and noticing what changed	Week 3 · new areas

Personality describes habits of thinking, not your memory or health. Brain games are practice, not treatment. If you are worried about your memory, talk to your doctor.

CHAPTER 10

Your brain-training plan

4 weeks · 10 minutes a day · 2 games a day, about 5 minutes each. Each week focuses on one area of your mind, in the order that fits The Mentor.

WEEK 1 🧠 Memorization

Big-picture minds race ahead and let small details slip. Short memory games keep names, dates and lists close at hand.

Pair Tiles — Remember where the pairs of pictures are, then find them on a closed board.

> Why it's for you: Pictures stick best for a mind that thinks in people and moments — like putting a name to a face.

Memo — Memorize the positions of the cards, then find them all. (Focus game)

> Why it's for you: A gentle start: you remember where things are, like keys or glasses.

This week helps you: Remember names and details without the awkward pause.
You'll know it's working when your Memorization number on the Progress tab is higher than on day 1, and you can recall the names of three new people you met this week.

WEEK 2 ➗ Math

Planners think best on a set path. Quick mental math trains speed and working memory, so the mind adapts fast when plans change.

Comparison — Choose which side is bigger, quickly.

> Why it's for you: Quick, friendly rounds — trust your first sense of the numbers.

Fast Math — Solve quick sums before the time runs out.

> Why it's for you: Short rounds of everyday sums — like checking the change.

This week helps you: Think quickly — check a bill or count change in your head.
You'll know it's working when your Math number on the Progress tab is higher than on day 1, and you check a restaurant bill or the change at the store in your head.

WEEK 3 🧩 Logic + 🎯 Focus

This week brings in the two areas you haven't trained yet. Play one game from each, every day.

Water Sort — Logic: Pour colored water between glasses until each glass holds one color.

> Why it's for you: Calm, step by step and no rush — you plan the order, then watch it work.

Memo — Focus: Memorize the positions of the cards, then find them all.

> Why it's for you: It trains you to notice where things are, not only what they mean.

This week helps you: Solve everyday problems and adjust calmly when plans or routines change. Keep track of your keys and glasses, and follow a conversation without losing the thread.

WEEK 4 All four together

New games from all four areas. Play 2 of these each day, changing the mix, and see which area grew the most since day 1.

Single Line	Logic: Fill the whole shape with one continuous line.
Memo	Focus: Memorize the positions of the cards, then find them all.
Fast Math	Math: Solve quick sums before the time runs out.
Numbers	Focus: Find the numbers in order as fast as you can.

Your 28-day check-in

Tick a circle each day you play. Aim for at least 5 days a week — that is how a habit forms.

	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Week 1	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 2	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 3	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 4	○	○	○	○	○	○	○

CHAPTER 12

About this report

Entertainment, not diagnosis

This personality test is for self-discovery and entertainment. It is not a medical or psychological diagnosis and is not a substitute for professional evaluation.

How we built your type

You rated 24 statements, six for each of four scales: Energy, Mind, Decisions and Lifestyle. Each scale shows which side you lean toward. Your four sides together give one of 16 types. Our scales and type names are our own.

About the rarity figure

How common each type is comes from estimates for U.S. adults in a national sample of 3,009 people (Myers et al., 1998). Because our test uses its own scales, the figure is an estimate.

About brain games

[Company] games are everyday mental practice. They are not a medical treatment. If you notice changes in your memory that worry you, please talk to your doctor.
