CHAPTER 1

You are The Go-Getter ⚡

Acts first, thinks fast. You love action, real results and a bit of excitement. You are quick on your feet and great in a pinch.

Your type is one of 16. Each has its own strengths, blind spots and way of thinking — this report is about yours.

Your four sides

Lifestyle

You in three words

Quick reactions · Energy · Practical thinking

At your best, you decide in the moment and get things moving.

Type frequency: estimates for U.S. adults from a national sample of 3,009 people (Myers et al., 1998). Our test uses its own 4 scales, so the figure is an estimate.

CHAPTER 2

Your 4 scales

Each scale has two sides. Nobody is 100% one side — your answers showed which side you lean toward. It is marked with ✓.

Energy — Where do you get your energy?

Social ✓ Quiet

You recharge around people. Conversation, visits and shared plans give you energy.

Mind — What do you notice first?

Visionary ✓ Grounded

You trust facts, experience and practical details. You notice what others miss.

Decisions — How do you decide?

Logic ✓ Heart

You decide with your head. You weigh facts and fairness first.

Lifestyle — How do you like to live?

Planner ✓ Flexible

You like open options and room to change course. You adapt easily.

CHAPTER 3

Your strengths

These are the things people value in you — often more than you realize.

Quick reactions

You react fast when it counts.

Energy

You bring energy to every task.

Practical thinking

You focus on what really works.

Your mind’s natural strengths

Based on how you take in information and how you like to live, your mind is naturally good at:

Memory for details · Flexibility

Your brain-training plan builds on these strengths and trains the areas that get less practice.

CHAPTER 4

Your blind spots

Every strength has a flip side. Blind spots are not flaws — they are habits worth noticing.

🔍 Acts before thinking it through

You act before you think it through.

> Try this: Take one breath and one question before big moves.

🌱 Loses interest once the excitement fades

Interest fades once the excitement is gone.

> Try this: Set a small reward for finishing.

What slips first for your type

For The Go-Getter, what tends to slip first is focus when the task gets slow. Your brain-training plan in Chapter 10 starts exactly there.

CHAPTER 5

How you make decisions

Logic Flexible

You weigh the facts but keep your options open until the last moment. You are good at changing course when new information appears. Watch for: putting off a choice that is already clear.

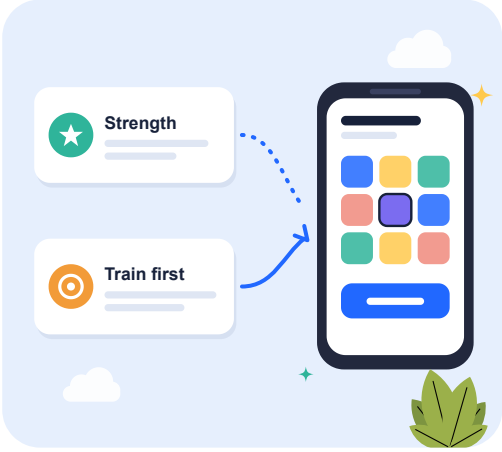

At your best, you decide in the moment and get things moving.

Three small habits for better decisions

1. Set yourself a “decide by” day for choices that keep waiting.
2. Write the two best options on paper — seeing them helps you commit.
3. Tell people when you have decided, so they are not left guessing.

Why this matters for your mind

Deciding uses your working memory: holding several options in mind and comparing them. The Logic and Math games in your [Company] plan practice exactly that — in a few relaxed minutes a day.

CHAPTER 6

Relationships and communication

You are lively and direct. People always know where they stand with you, and you enjoy a good debate. Your loved ones may sometimes need more warmth than facts.

With your family

In the family you are often the one who speaks up, organizes and says what needs to be said. Your honesty is a gift; a softer start makes it easier to hear.

With friends

Friends enjoy your energy and your opinions. You keep conversations lively and you are the first to suggest a plan.

With children and grandchildren

With your children and grandchildren you are the one with a plan or a challenge ready: a game, a question, a trip. Let them win an argument now and then — they will remember it.

People love your energy; listening to the end makes you even better company.

Staying sharp for the people you love

Remembering names, following a fast family conversation, keeping up with your children's and grandchildren's news — these are the everyday moments your brain-training plan is built around.

CHAPTER 7

You at your best

Everyone has good days and hard days. Knowing your pattern helps you get back to your best faster.

At your best

Bold, energetic and quick to act. You make things happen right now.

Under stress

You may take risks, get restless and lose interest in long tasks.

What brings you back

Movement and fresh air, then one clear goal for the day.

How to talk to you

Share this with the people close to you.

1. Get to the point — you like a straight answer.
2. Disagree openly; you enjoy a good debate.
3. Invite you to plan or lead something together.

CHAPTER 8

People, pastimes and questions

You may share your type with

Ernest Hemingway
writer

Madonna
singer

Eddie Murphy
actor and comedian

Based on public descriptions of these people, not official assessments.

Pastimes you may enjoy

- Volunteering in your community
- Cooking for friends and family
- Group walks or dancing
- Card and board game nights

Three questions for this week

1. Which idea am I ready to finish?
2. What decision have I been putting off?
3. Who would enjoy hearing my latest idea?

CHAPTER 9

How your mind works

Your mind is fast and practical. Training focus and problem solving keeps that speed working for you, not against you.

Your strength is speed and practicality. What slips first is focus and careful problem solving.

Small slips with names and details are common at any age. Short daily practice keeps your mind in the habit of noticing.

Your mind in four areas

These are the four areas you can train in the [Company] app. Here is the order that fits your type.

🧩 Logic	seeing patterns and finding a new order of steps	Week 1 · train first
🎯 Focus	staying with one task and noticing what changed	Week 2 · train next
🧠 Memorization	holding names, numbers and details in mind	Week 3 · new areas
➗ Math	quick mental math and holding several numbers at once	Week 3 · new areas

Personality describes habits of thinking, not your memory or health. Brain games are practice, not treatment. If you are worried about your memory, talk to your doctor.

CHAPTER 10

Your brain-training plan

4 weeks · 10 minutes a day · 2 games a day, about 5 minutes each. Each week focuses on one area of your mind, in the order that fits The Go-Getter.

WEEK 1 🧩 Logic

Detail-minded people rely on proven routines. Logic puzzles train the mind to find new patterns when routines change.

Single Line — Fill the whole shape with one continuous line.

> Why it's for you: Short, visual puzzles that reward a fresh look rather than a fixed method.

Dots — Connect dots of the same color without crossing the lines.

> Why it's for you: Quick to start and you can try another path at once — made for a mind that likes to experiment.

This week helps you: Solve everyday problems and adjust calmly when plans or routines change.
You'll know it's working when your Logic number on the Progress tab is higher than on day 1, and when a plan changes, you find a plan B in a few minutes, without stress.

WEEK 2 🎯 Focus

Flexible minds jump between ideas. Attention games help you stay with one task until it is done.

Fruit Sort — Sort the fruits so each basket holds one kind.

> Why it's for you: A tidy, practical task — focus without pressure.

Missing items — Look at a set of items, then spot what has gone missing.

> Why it's for you: Your eye for detail is a strength here — this keeps it quick.

This week helps you: Keep track of your keys and glasses, and follow a conversation without losing the thread.
You'll know it's working when your Focus number on the Progress tab is higher than on day 1, and you finish a chapter, a recipe or a TV episode without starting over.

WEEK 3 🧠 Memorization + ➗ Math

This week brings in the two areas you haven't trained yet. Play one game from each, every day.

Code — Memorization: Remember a short code and repeat it back.

> Why it's for you: Short sequences, like a PIN or a phone number — precise and measurable.

Fast Math — Math: Solve quick sums before the time runs out.

> Why it's for you: Clear right-or-wrong answers and a score you can beat tomorrow.

This week helps you: Remember names and details without the awkward pause. Think quickly — check a bill or count change in your head.

WEEK 4 All four together

New games from all four areas. Play 2 of these each day, changing the mix, and see which area grew the most since day 1.

Dots	Logic: Connect dots of the same color without crossing the lines.
Pair Tiles	Memorization: Remember where the pairs of pictures are, then find them on a closed board.
Cross Math	Math: Fill in the missing numbers so every line of the crossword adds up.
Missing items	Focus: Look at a set of items, then spot what has gone missing.

Your 28-day check-in

Tick a circle each day you play. Aim for at least 5 days a week — that is how a habit forms.

	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
Week 1	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 2	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 3	○	○	○	○	○	○	○
Week 4	○	○	○	○	○	○	○

CHAPTER 12

About this report

Entertainment, not diagnosis

This personality test is for self-discovery and entertainment. It is not a medical or psychological diagnosis and is not a substitute for professional evaluation.

How we built your type

You rated 24 statements, six for each of four scales: Energy, Mind, Decisions and Lifestyle. Each scale shows which side you lean toward. Your four sides together give one of 16 types. Our scales and type names are our own.

About the rarity figure

How common each type is comes from estimates for U.S. adults in a national sample of 3,009 people (Myers et al., 1998). Because our test uses its own scales, the figure is an estimate.

About brain games

[Company] games are everyday mental practice. They are not a medical treatment and do not diagnose, treat or prevent any condition. If you notice changes in your memory that worry you, please talk to your doctor.
